WINE MAKING NOW AT HEIGHT

Big Shipments of Grapes Being Received Here

Big shipments of grapes for wine-making are now being received in the copper country from the vineyards of New York. Contrary to the first expectations, the grapes are no higher this year than in other years, the consumers paying $37 and $38 per ton. It is probable, however, that later shipments will cost more, for the failure of the Michigan crop has brought the New York grapes into increased demand. Nags are already becoming scarce although there are plenty of Concord grapes in the market.

This year's Michigan crop was a failure. The shipments brought to this city were disposed of to consumers at from $55 to $45 per ton, whereas the New York grapes, choicer stock, are in greater demand at higher prices. Several carloads have already been received into the copper country from the east, and it is expected the total shipments this year will be fully as large as in other years. It is probable that about fifty carloads will be required to supply the copper country wine makers this year.

New York Apples Coming.

The first shipment of New York winter apples arrived in Calumet today, consigned to the Lake Superior Produce company. The apples are said to be of an exceptional quality this year, principally Baldwins and red apples. Greenings, Kings and Northern Spys, which were so plentiful last year are quite scarce this year and red apples will predominate.

The choicest New York apples will be cheaper in the local markets this year from present indications. Michigan apples while plentiful are not likely to be in as big demand.

A prominent copper country wholesaler, in discussing the situation, called attention to the greatest shortcoming of the Michigan fruit growers, and in view of the fact that northern Michigan is rapidly coming to the front as a fruit growing center, it might be well for local growers to note the suggestion.

"Each year the National Apple Growers association meets and sets the standards for the year," said the wholesaler mentioned, "and these standards govern orchard men. For this year it is established that 'A-No. 1' apple stock shall not be less than two and one-half inches in diameter, even for the smaller varieties, while No. 2 stock may be two and one-quarter inches. The New York fruit growers almost invariably sort their apples and keep the No. 1 and No. 2 stock separate. As a result, No. 1 stock has gained a reputation throughout the entire country and commands a higher price than mixed stock. Michigan growers on the other hand, seem to go at it, hit-or-miss, and it is not uncommon to find different varieties as well as different grades in the same barrel. Invariably the largest and choicest apples are on the top and bottom and seconds most frequently find their way into the middle of the barrel. Of course, this does not apply to all fruit growers in Michigan.

There are some who observe the demands of the National Apple Growers' association and their fruit commands a higher price in the markets than that of their neighbors, but I am sorry to say, this is not the rule, and Michigan apples are not regarded as first-class quality and do not command the prices brought by New York apples."

Copper Country Crops.
This year for the first time copper country grown fruit is being marketed extensively. A large percentage of the early apples sold in the copper country this year were home grown, many of them coming from the Skanee district. Ontonagon county furnished a large percentage of the cranberries brought to the copper country this year and as the industry is but in its infancy there, it gives promise of much greater development.

The copper country has for years produced its own potatoes and they are just as plentiful this year as in the past. Other garden produce is also plentiful this year.

For the first time the copper country is supplying its own demand for cabbage, at least practically. A large number of local residents make their own sauerkraut and it has been found that copper country grown cabbage are unsurpassed for this purpose. Most of the cabbage for home consumption are shipped here from Wisconsin points, but it is expected that in a few years no outside cabbage will be required.

SEN. TOWNSEND COMING OCT. 29

Big G. O. P. Rally is Planned For That Date

United States Senator Charles E. Townsend will come to the copper country to advance the Republican campaign on Oct. 29. Word was received here today that Senator Townsend had been assigned to Houghton county for that one date and Robt. H. Shields, secretary of the county committee is now engaged in preparing for his reception and arranging for speeches.

It is probable there will be two meetings, one at Hancock in the afternoon and the other in Calumet in the evening, although this has not been definitely arranged.

That Senator Townsend has many friends in the upper peninsula is shown by the fact that he defeated Hon. Julius C. Burrows, former senator from Michigan by a substantial majority in the primary campaign two years ago. His visit here will be awaited with much interest.
